

A photograph of a traditional Chinese wooden 'Jubi Pan' (聚寶盆), a ritual vessel used for accumulating wealth. It consists of a large, shallow, circular wooden bowl with a matching lid. The lid is topped with a rounded, teardrop-shaped finial. The wood is a light, natural color and has a smooth, polished finish. To the left of the bowl, an orange-colored caliper is placed for scale. A small, rectangular white label with a pink border is attached to the front of the bowl. The label contains the handwritten number '4-16' and the Chinese characters '聚寶盆'. The entire setup is placed on a dark blue, textured fabric background.
